

Of Interest to Women.

THE SOUND OF A VOICE.

BY KEITH GORDON.

That it was himself who was listening, "This is 322," he began.

Before he could get further there was a desponding exclamation from the other end of the wire, while the only voice in the world pleaded: "Won't you please ring off?"

"Lansing" laughed delightedly, but the laugh cost him his chance.

"How are you, Mrs. Audley?" he began, but a buzz, buzz, buzz-z-z-z-z, buzz-z-z-z was all that he got for his pains. Nor did his frantic ringing nor the things he said to central avail him.

"Don't know, Mr. Can't find out," was all that the distant impassive voice of the operator vouchsafed, and with a sigh of exasperation he at last hung up the receiver.

She was back in the city, then. Somewhere in the wilderness of brick and stone that incomparable voice was ringing, but not for him. Suddenly Mrs. Stanton's warning remark fell upon his ears as if it had been spoken by some invisible presence.

"Pendola has many suitors."

The thought galled him. While he tarried, allowing mere life and death matters to detain him, what might not have happened? The truth came to him now with a terrible, crushing force. The one thing in life greater than all other things was Love. And strange and monstrous as it might seem, he loved with all his heart a woman whom he had practically never seen. Since that brief, dim half hour in the Stanton drawing room seemed more like an episode of some than an actual meeting, where the sweet, strong woman of her had been revealed to him in that strange, vibrant, caressing voice.

Inquiry at the Stanton residence did not put him forward. They were still in Europe and the housekeeper did not know when they would return. Nor could she tell him anything of Mrs. Audley.

He tried, but determined, he left no stone unturned for the next three weeks, but without success. Edith Audley seemed to have disappeared in the crowd of the unknown, and he wondered if that fool, Stanton, would ever bring his wife back from Europe.

Then, in the most casual manner, the information that he had sought in vain came to him. Waiting moodily for a friend in the Turkish room of the Waldorf late one afternoon, the sudden recollection of a name at last recalled him to his whereabouts.

"Symington!" Mr. Symington rang out a call boy in a nasal tone, looking hauntingly about as he sauntered through the room.

None of the men scattered about the room responded, and the boy tried another track.

"Card for Mrs. Audley?" Card for Mrs. Audley? he reiterated, with an expression that implied that the fellow who had sent his card to that lady must be trying to conceal himself. Then suddenly a gentleman near the door beckoned to him energetically.

"Mr. Symington?" demanded the boy. At the gentleman's negative reply he looked away very wearily. But when the latter, pressing a quarter into his hand, asked a certain question, he replied with mitigated severity:

"Lansing's first impression of her when at last she came toward him in broad daylight was that she was like a rose. The eyes were dark and the voice, my darling, during the weeks that following, when he was trying with all the arts he could muster to lead her to the point that he had reached at a bound."

"You growing jealous of my own voice?" she said to him at last, with a hurt, questioning look in her eyes. "I sometimes think that it isn't my friendship that you care for at all, but it's only that my voice appeals to you touches some chord in you. I don't just like it."

And it was then that Lansing told her, told her with an ardor that she could not deny, ending with: "Your voice, my darling, is the most beautiful thing in the world, but it's beautiful because it is you put into sound."

And, being but a woman, what could she do but believe?

THREE GENERATIONS PRAISE PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh in All Its Phases, Whether in Adults or Infants.

Pe-ru-na the Only Medicine They Use.

Mrs. THRESE ROOKE, 238 N. Ashland street, Chicago, Ill., Treasurer Ladies of the Macabees, writes:

"In our home Pe-ru-na is the only medicine we have. Grandmother, mother, father and child all have used Pe-ru-na. It is our great remedy for catarrh of the stomach and head, colds, or female complaints of which it has cured me. We find it of great value when my husband becomes worn out or catches cold. A couple of doses cure him. If the baby has colic or any stomach disorders, a dose or two cure her. I consider Pe-ru-na finer than any doctor's medicine I have ever tried, and I know that as long as we have it in the house we will all be able to keep in good health."

Threse Roke.

Mrs. Friedrich of Central Park, L. I., Thinks Highly of Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. M. Friedrich, Central Park, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I thank you for your kindness in answering my letters. I know your treatment has done me a wonderful good. When I first commenced to take it I had catarrh of the throat and stomach. I think highly of Pe-ru-na and would not be without a bottle of it in the house. It is also good for breaking up colds, if taken in time. Even my little boy will ask for it when he has a cold. Wherever I can procure Pe-ru-na, I will do so."

Mrs. M. Friedrich.

Pe-ru-na Cured After Doctors Failed.

Mrs. Martha Moss, R. F. D. 5, Chipewah Falls, Wis., writes:

"Our little eight-year-old girl is well now and you do not know how grateful we are to you. Some of our best doctors had given her up. This spring she took a bad cold and cough. When her cough was relieved, she began to have pains in her stomach and her kidneys were in bad condition. One doctor called it a general run down condition, and another said it was appendicitis. They changed her medicine several times, but it did not help her. In July I got a bottle of Pe-ru-na and commenced giving it to her and the treatment proved to be just what she needed. When I wrote to you she had to be carried—now she is around playing all the time. You have done a great deal for her. She is the only girl we have and it meant lots to us to have her cured."

Mrs. Martha Moss.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the ones given above. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving every month. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic and grateful letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Pe-ru-na. All correspondence is held strictly confidential.

How to Judge Beer

POINTS OF EXCELLENCE

- "BRILLIANCY"—Clarity and polish, proving perfect brewing and fermentation.
- "CLEAN" TASTE—The absence of a disagreeable foreign or "after-taste," proving scrupulous cleanliness during the brewing process.
- "SOLID, CREAMY FOAM"—An infallible indication of body, age and excellence of brewing material.
- "PURITY"—Impossible to find in most bottled beers, because their preservation is gained through chemical adulteration.
- "FLAVOR"—The distinctive individual characteristic of any beverage, as peculiar to its name as its color to the rose. A delicious and pronounced hop aroma is the highest standard.

A. B. C.

is the ONLY beer that possesses all of these essential qualifications. Its purity is absolutely guaranteed by its makers. It is the ONLY beer that can be so guaranteed, because it is the ONLY beer bottled exclusively at the brewery.
